No Longer Associated with Makerz.io and its co-founder Estelle Chang

1. From the release of makerz.io back in year 2015-2016, my collaboration with Estelle Chang on makerz.io development has come to its maturity and we decided to be parted to our own separate journey.
2. Throughout the collaboration, assets were created and particularly makerz.io.founders@gmail.com joint email account were created in order to make makerz.io development works. As part of my departure, I had fully transferred the ownership to Estelle Chang as the sole proprietorship and no longer getting associated with the account.
3. Noticing that Estelle Chang is continuing to use the joint account for her own personal discretion without a good understanding of identity management, I formally declared that I'm not responsible at all for any incidents or liabilities under makerz.io.founders@gmail.com joint account, which can be any but not limited to of the following:
 1. Financial transaction or claims
 2. Issues and communications
 3. Direct, indirect, literal, and metaphorical messages sent under the said account.
4. Given the public knowledge of this announcement, you shall only communicate with the above said account at your own discretion and at your own risk. I shall not entertain any communications related to the above said properties.
